

Healthy Canada by Design – Product List Template

Template Instructions

The three tables below list (1) peer-review publications, (2) grey literature, and (3) other tools and resources developed through the duration of your CLASP project. Please complete the following actions for each table:

1. Review the pre-populated information to ensure it is correct.
2. Add any missing products that were developed during your CLASP1 or CLASP1 Renewal project periods to the appropriate table. Please feel free to add more rows to each section.

If you are unable to provide a URL for any grey literature, tools, or resources, please attach an electronic, soft copy with your submission of this template. For any products developed in both French and English – please provide a URL or copy for each. If a soft copy is unavailable, please bring a hard copy to the Wednesday, August 27th Sustaining CLASP Outcomes meeting.

Please note that this information will be shared amongst the Sustaining CLASP Outcomes meeting attendees.

Peer-reviewed Publications

Citation

Special Supplement in the Canadian Journal of Public Health. 2012. This special supplement of the CJPH features primary research projects directed at the built environment that were funded by the Heart and Stroke Foundation and the Canadian Institute of Health Research between 2008 and 2012. The publishing of the Journal was supported by CPAC-CLASP through the HCBD CLASP I initiative.

Special Supplement of the Canadian Journal of Public Health. To be published in the Fall 2014.

This supplement will include 9 peer-reviewed articles on the HCBD CLASP I Initiative including:

1. Gagnon, Bellefleur: Influencing Public Policies: Two (Very Good) Reasons to Look Toward Scientific Knowledge in Public Policy (accepted)
2. Macfarlane, Wood, Campbell: Healthy Toronto by Design: Promoting a Healthier Built Environment (accepted)
3. Neumann, Leeming, Guttman, et al: Incorporating Consideration of Health Impacts Into Land Use Development Approval Process: The Development of a Health Background Study Framework (being peer reviewed)
4. Frank, Ulmer, Chapman, et al: Application of an Evidence-based Tool to Evaluate Health Impacts of Changes to the Built

Environment (accepted)

5. Dubé, Beausoleil, Gosselin, et al: Inventory of Grassroots Projects Aimed at Improving Dimensions of the Built Environment Associated With Active Transportation on the Island of Montreal (accepted)
6. Frank, Chapman, Kershaw, et al: The Unmet Demand for Walkability: Disparities Between Preferences and Actual Choices for Residential Environments in Toronto and Vancouver (accepted)
8. Miro et al. Building the Capacity of health authorities to influence land use and transportation planning: Lessons learned from the Healthy Canada by Design CLASP project in British Columbia. (accepted)
9. Miro et al. Healthy Canada by Design: A cross-provincial, cross sector effort to promote healthier built environments (Being reviewed for a second time).

It will also include an introduction by HSF (Manuel Arango), a commentary on the Healthy Canada by Design CLASP Renewal (Kim Perrotta and Gene Chin) and a commentary on the overall supplement by Dr. David Mowat.

NOTE: There are a few other articles being submitted by academics who have worked on our projects but we need to clarify where they are at (SFU, Clearwater & MPH).

CIP Healthy communities Committee (H, Christy, D. Harrison, George McKibbon, Alice Miro, Olimpia Pantelimon, A. McKibbon, PhD). Our 21st Century Challenge: Healthier Communities. Plan Canada. Spring 2012.
